A NEW POLICY FOR THE TIMES.

BY LEWIS CARPENTER.

[Editorial note: Discussion of policy and strategy for the Times newspaper.]

EDITORIAL.

The Times has adopted a new policy, effective immediately.

[Article discussing the new policy's impact on the newspaper's content and objectives.]
may have discovered that it is presented by the spiritual, eternal, and imperishable power and divinity of God. Thus, it is not a matter of intellectual debate, but a matter of faith. However, the text on the page is not entirely clear due to the style of handwriting.

The text mentions "the blessedness of the divine" and "the power of God". It seems to be discussing the relationship between faith and divinity. The text also mentions "the power of the Lord" and "the power of the divine". It appears to be a religious text, discussing philosophical and theological concepts.

The text concludes with a statement about the "knowledge of God" and "the power of God". It seems to be emphasizing the importance of understanding the nature of God through faith and knowledge. The text ends with a statement about the "knowledge of God" and "the power of God".

Overall, the text appears to be a religious and philosophical discourse on the nature of God and the power of divine knowledge. It emphasizes the importance of faith and understanding the nature of God through knowledge and intellectual pursuits.
